

Dysmorphology

Whole body morphology was examined following a standardised checklist. Depth and breadth of the assessment differed according to pipeline. The most important deviation was that the coat and whiskers at times were assessed separately.

The assay was performed at either 9 or 10 weeks, dependent upon the pipeline. The diet the mice were fed was pipeline dependent.